

From: Congressman Jared Polis <jared.polis@mail.house.gov> To: Katie.schafer@mail.house.gov Subject: TEST Eliminating pork

Families across the country know what it's like to create a budget, accounting for everything from housing and utilities, to groceries, insurance, and transportation. They live within their means, knowing that every month, there will be new bills to pay. The federalgovernmentfailsto budget long-term, and spendsoutside itsmeans. Why? Because too many politicians over-spend your tax dollars to curry favor with special interest groups. The taxes that politicians set aside for special interest groups is called "pork," and there is far too much of it. It could come in the form of unnecessary government contracts for mercenaries or corporations. As a result, we have had a deficit for the past 17 years and have amassed $21 trillion in total debt. Next year, the deficit is expected to hit nearly $1 trillion. On overspending, it doesn't seem to matter whether Republicans or Democrats are in charge, it just gets worse and worse. We have to stop this spending spree because it only leaves us economically beholden to foreign countries we borrow from like China and Saudi Arabia. The U.S. is one of the wealthiest nations on the planet, collecting a whopping $3.3 trillion in taxes; that should be enough to balance the budget! Since starting in Congress, I have championed over 100 spending cuts, eliminating "pork" by ending sweetheart deals for special interest groups. I have also sponsored a balanced budget amendment to force Congress to live within our means. As your Representative, I am doing everything I can to stop the wastefulness, including voting against most of the bloated spending bills. The way we are headed simply doesn't add up.
