Peter, This week, the House of Representatives will be voting on the Fiscal Year 2025 funding bills for the Departments of Homeland Security, State, and Defense. These bills will ensure we meet all the needs of these important departments. Our Homeland Security funding bill makes key investments in border security while providing additional funding toward nonprofit security grant programs and disaster recovery. Our State Department bill provides crucial support to Israel and Taiwan while clawing funds away from offices and international organizations that undermine America's interests and allies. It also fully funds the Office of the Special Envoy for the Abraham Accords, which was created as a result of my very first bill to become law and will go a long way toward fostering long-term peace and prosperity across the Middle East. Finally, our Defense Department funding bill provides further support for our democratic partners and critical quality of life upgrades for U.S. servicemembers.
