Peter, One of my favorite things to do as a member of Congress is recognize individuals who have gone above and beyond in their service to our community. In just my first few months representing you in Washington, I have been proud to present official proclamations and certificates of congressional recognition to hundreds of individuals and organizations across the 17th District. These include firefighters and law enforcement officers who risked their lives to save others, civil rights leaders who have helped forge a more just and equitable world, small business owners who create jobs and continually give back through their charitable work, healthcare workers and advocates who have helped saved the lives of thousands, educators helping to inform and inspire the next generation of leaders and citizens, and so many others. Now, with several post offices in our district unnamed, we have the opportunity to provide everyday heroes in our community with the recognition that they have earned. As my team and I consider individuals to recognize with this honor, we greatly value your input. If there is an individual, living or deceased, in our community you would like to see recognized on account of their efforts to make Hudson Valley a great place to live, work, and raise a family, please nominate them in our survey by CLICKING
