Wiley Nickel Dear Neighbor, Happy Saturday! I'm reaching out to update you on the work I'm doing on behalf of North Carolina's 13th District. Week in Review I started the week in North Carolina, traveling throughout the 13th District to commemorate Juneteenth. Juneteenth is an important opportunity to reflect on past injustices and recommit to building a brighter, more equal, and just future for every American. It was great to spend Juneteenth with so many community leaders, elected officials, and constituents. I had the chance to congratulate Paige Hoerner from Longleaf School of the Arts for winning this year's NC-13 Congressional Art Competition. Paige's portrait titled "Mirrored Youth," will be displayed in the U.S. Capitol for the next year. I participated in a House Financial Services Committee hearing with Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell. We started by finding some common ground: discovering we're both fans of the Grateful Dead. I like people who like the Grateful Dead, and it's nice to know that Chair Jerome Powell is one of them. I helped re-introduce the Equality Act. This bill embodies the longstanding, deeply American principle that all people should be treated equally regardless of race, sex, class, or sexual orientation. Fighting for North Carolina Values One year ago today, the Supreme Court overturned Roe v. Wade, an unprecedented and dangerous decision for women in North Carolina and throughout the country. The people of North Carolina's 13th District sent me to Congress to fight for their personal rights and freedoms, not to strip them away. As your Congressman, I'll continue to stand up for mainstream North Carolina values, fight for reproductive freedom, and work with every ounce of my energy to put the protections of Roe v. Wade into federal law. Click Here to Watch my Video Remarks on the One-Year Anniversary of the Supreme Court Overturning Roe v. Wade Selma Town Hall I hope you'll join me on Wednesday, June 28th at 6pm in Selma for an in-person town hall. I believe that hearing from constituents is crucial to shaping my priorities in Congress and better serving our community. I encourage you to attend this event and share your thoughts, ideas, and concerns with me and your fellow community members. Click Here to Register for my Selma

Town Hall! Constituent Services As your representative, hearing about the issues that are important to you helps shape my priorities. Please reach out to my office with any policy concerns here. Our constituent advocates are located in Garner and can help you navigate issues with government agencies such as renewing your passport, assisting with Social Security, Medicare, or Veterans benefits, and much more. You can write in about the issue you are dealing with below and our team of constituent advocates will reach out to you. Since January, our Constituent Advocates have helped claw back over $650,000 to constituents through casework assistance. You can also call my Washington, D.C. Office at 202-225-4531 or my Garner District Office at 984-275-6150.
