I was appalled by Fatima Mohammed's hate-filled anti-Semitic address at City University of New York's Law School graduation. Her diabolical diatribe against Israel and the Jewish people should never have been allowed to occur.
Unfortunately, incidents like this are becoming more and more common on college and university campuses across the country. As if Fatima's speech wasn't horrendous enough, these instances of hate have extended beyond words. An updated FBI report on hate crimes showed that from 2020 to 2021, anti-Semitic hate crimes increased by 20%. From 2021 to 2022, according to the Anti-Defamation League, anti-Semitic incidents in the United States rose by 36%. Over the weekend, I spoke at the Holocaust Museum & Center for Tolerance and Education's annual benefit brunch and earlier this year I had the chance to hear the personal testimony of Holocaust survivors in Washington, D.C. when we commemorated Yom HaShoah - Holocaust Remembrance Day. The history of one of the darkest times in history teaches us that when hate is given room to grow, it becomes all the more difficult to contain.  Our Constitution guarantees people the right to say what they want, but the federal government shouldn't be using taxpayer dollars to support it. That's why last week I introduced H.R. 3773, the Stop Anti-Semitism on College Campuses Act, which will rescind federal education dollars from any college or university that peddles in the promotion of anti-Semitism at an event on their campus.
With hate against people of the Jewish faith at record highs, it is crucial that we combat this cancer and send a powerful message that hate has no place here. Please let me know your thoughts on my new legislation by responding to our survey below. Monday, June 5, 2023 Peter, I was appalled by Fatima
