Haga clic aquí.Dear Neighbor, Good news! California now has the lowest COVID-19 case rate in the nation and, here in Los Angeles County, there have been significant drops in COVID cases, hospitalizations and deaths. This amazing progress comes as we look forward to the State of California moving towards a full reopening tomorrow, on Tuesday, June 15th! Here are some details: The State of California will soon start lifting mask mandates for workers in places where everyone is vaccinated, but if even one person is unvaccinated, the mask mandate will remain in effect. Unvaccinated people are still at great risk because not enough of us are vaccinated to prevent new COVID outbreaks. Hospitals, care facilities and schools will also have stricter requirements than most places, even after June 15. This will include continued masking and social distancing requirements. Businesses will also be allowed to determine for themselves when they wish to lift their own COVID restrictions, so it's important to respect the decisions and rules of each business establishment. Above all, please get vaccinated if you haven't already! The sooner we get our shots, the sooner we can all enjoy our summer safely together. You can find nearby vaccination sites here. Free Rides to Vaccination Sites For people struggling to get to a vaccination site, LA County Public Health can help get you a free ride there and back. The Uber and Lyft rideshare apps are offering free roundtrip rides to some vaccination sites within their apps, which can be downloaded for free through your smartphone's app store. If you are seeking assistance scheduling a ride or if you want to get your vaccination at a site not listed in the app, you can reach out to the Public Health call center at 1 (833) 540-0473 and you will be connected to free transportation. <https://www.sbccthrivela.org/partners>. Wilmington community leaders and I attended the launch of the program at SBCC this week. We welcome the collaboration with Ring and their use of modern technology to help increase public safety and strengthen the connections between neighbors. Juneteenth is Coming Juneteenth is a holiday celebrating the freedom of people who have been enslaved in the United States. The legacy of Juneteenth continues to remind us of the need for organizing around liberation and protecting our civil rights. Join one – or all! – of these Juneteenth celebrations and resource events happening throughout our district next weekend. Updates from D.C. Hearing on the Threat of Climate Change On Tuesday, the Homeland Security Subcommittee on Emergency Preparedness held a hearing on the threat climate change poses to our homeland. I had the opportunity to discuss the importance of clean energy microgrids as a resilience strategy from climate change with Bill Nye (the Science Guy!) and Curtis Brown of Virginia's Department of Emergency Management. I also discussed how a warming climate is affecting migration patterns in Central American countries, and how we need a better system to address the changes of migration that will come from climate change. Hearing on Unaccompanied Child Migrants On Thursday, I chaired a Homeland Security Border Security hearing on the federal response to unaccompanied child migrants at our southern border. Building the capacity to quickly and humanely process these children remains a challenge. We must remember that they are children and they are extremely vulnerable. I believe We have a moral duty to ensure all children are treated humanely and have access to all of the legal protections they are guaranteed under U.S. law.
