Senate Democrats just passed the American Rescue Plan, the COVID-19 relief bill proposed by President Biden. The U.S. House of Representatives will vote on the bill Tuesday so we can get it to the President's desk. The bill will extend unemployment at $300 a week until early September, invest in more vaccines and distribution, help open schools, issue $1,400 survival checks to those that qualify and more. This newsletter includes information about vaccine eligibility, a helpful list of vaccine sites in our district, and legislative updates from Washington, D.C. Coronavirus & Vaccine Updates Here in California, we continue to make progress in our fight against COVID-19. About 20 percent of people 16 and older have been vaccinated and hospitalizations continue to drop. We recently got more good news on the vaccine front! The new Johnson & Johnson vaccine has been approved by the FDA, and this week President Biden announced that we are on track to have enough vaccine doses for every adult in the country by the end of May. The Biden Administration also announced that free masks will be made available to community health centers and food pantries across the country beginning this month and into May. This means that our most vulnerable will have access to masks at no cost. Updated Vaccine Eligibility LA County hosted a very helpful virtual town hall this week. Watch here! Remember that even if you have received one or both doses of your vaccine, you should continue to keep physical distance, wear a mask, and wash your hands. Until enough people are vaccinated, everyone must continue to follow the CDC health guidelines. Everyone who is eligible for a vaccine should get their shot as soon as possible. Better Access for Small Business Loans President Biden announced changes to the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) to promote equitable access to relief for small and minority-owned businesses: Instituted a 14-day exclusivity period, starting this last Wednesday (March 3), for businesses with fewer than 20 employees. Revised the PPP loan formula so it ensures non-traditional businesses, like sole proprietors, independent contractors and self-employed individuals are not left out. Sets aside $1 billion for businesses located in low-income and moderate-income areas. Ensures that business owners who use an Independent Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN) to file their taxes are not excluded from qualifying for a PPP loan. Allows most formerly incarcerated business owners to be able to apply for PPP aid. Makes a change so that if you are delinquent on a federal loan, your business is no longer disqualified from getting a PPP loan. Reach out to lado@sba.gov or my office with questions

Updates from D.C. Important Votes Last year, Americans across the country spoke out and demanded action to address the crisis of systemic racism and police brutality. Last Wednesday, the House passed the George Floyd Justice in Policing Act to transform the culture of policing in America, reduce police violence and make policing more accountable and responsive to the needs of communities. Black and Latino communities should feel safe from those meant to protect us when we are walking down the street, at work, or at home. You also can share your thoughts on this bill and become a citizen co-sponsor here. The House also passed H.R. 1, the For the People Act, comprehensive democracy reform legislation that expands the right to vote, preserves the integrity of our elections, increases transparency and cracks down on the influence of lobbyists and Washington insiders, holds elected officials accountable, and ends the era of big, secret, special-interest money in our politics.

Legislative Updates On Tuesday, the House Energy and Commerce Committee introduced the CLEAN Future Act, which sets the U.S. on a path to net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050 and makes record investments in clean energy to transform different parts of our economy. I am proud that two of my bills, the Climate Smart Ports Act and the Energy Resilient Communities Act, are included in this legislation. You can read more about the CLEAN Future Act and my statement on it here. On Tuesday, I participated in a hearing in the Committee on Energy and Commerce on the issue of access to telehealth. I highlighted the need to expand access to this vital service especially for communities who have unreliable access to broadband. We must ensure telehealth is inclusive regardless of technology access. In Community, En Comunidad, Nanette Diaz Barragán
